Teaching Resources

- GLSEN
 - This is really catered towards elementary, middle, and high school, but GLSEN provides a number of resources for incorporating LGBT history, themes, and people into curricula (<https://www.glsen.org/educate/resources/curriculum>)
- PBS

- Newshour video: “The Quiet Revolution Behind the Word ‘Transgender’” (<https://www.pbs.org/newshour/show/quiet-revolution-behind-word-transgender>)
- Article: “Here’s What Most People Get Wrong About the Transgender Community” (<https://www.pbs.org/newshour/nation/breaking-common-misconceptions-gender>)
- Youtube Series: “First Person PBS: Real LGBTQ+ Stories” (<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCImXOnPYnCdMiGw0UE16jw>)
- Gender Spectrum
 - Again, this is mostly geared to lower grades, but there are many resources for promoting inclusivity that may be useful at an introductory level (<https://www.genderspectrum.org/resources/education-2/#more-424>)
- Advocates for Youth
 - Lesson plans, tools, and strategies for instructors (<http://www.advocatesforyouth.org/lgbtq-resources-for-professionals>)
- Tolerance.org
 - Toolkit for LGBT Best Practices (<https://www.tolerance.org/magazine/fall-2013/toolkit-for-lgbt-best-practices>)
- University of Southern California
 - LGBT educational exercises that anyone can use as ice breakers, generate discussions, activities, or even create a full program around (<https://lgbtrc.usc.edu/education/activities/>)
- Rainbow Teaching
 - Free support, lesson plans, and resources to support a balanced, LGBT-inclusive education (<http://rainbowteaching.co.uk/>)
- Free CeCe (Documentary about CeCe McDonald, discusses prison abolitionism as well)
- The Trans Allyship Workbook: <http://thinkagaintraining.com/2017/11/12/get-your-new-trans-allyship-workbook/>

Training Resources
